

Those who have the intellect can read the following article and decipher its content separating the truth from the propaganda. It is clear that so-called arrest in too many cases is actually attempted murder, or as in the following cases, actual murder by paramilitary attack officers of the court running amok, murder approved by a judge's signature. ## Drugs tied to many deaths during arrests

One in every eight people who die while being arrested succumb to alcohol or drug intoxication, according to a new Justice Department analysis.

The report, covering deaths between 2003 and 2005, is the first of its kind to provide causes of death for suspects beyond those resulting from law enforcement officers' use of force. The data, provided by 47 states, showed that 2,002 people died during the arrest process. Most — 1,095 — resulted from officer-involved shootings or other forms of force.

The Justice report provides the new information to account for additional fatalities during often tense encounters between suspects and law enforcement.
