Compulsory fluoridation
Placing fluoride in the public water supply denies people the freedom of expression to not be medicated.
Why should people need to bear the burden of having to remove something that they don't want from something as basic and fundamental as public drinking water?
After all, one does have the right and freedom to add whatever they might want - at their own cost.

Compulsory fluoridation
Placing fluoride in the public water supply denies people the freedom of expression to not be medicated.
Why should people need to bear the burden of having to remove something that they don't want from something as basic and fundamental as public drinking water?
After all, one does have the right and freedom to add whatever they might want - at their own cost.

Compulsory fluoridation
Placing fluoride in the public water supply denies people the freedom of expression to not be medicated.
Why should people need to bear the burden of having to remove something that they don't want from something as basic and fundamental as public drinking water?
After all, one does have the right and freedom to add whatever they might want - at their own cost.

Compulsory fluoridation
Placing fluoride in the public water supply denies people the freedom of expression to not be medicated.
Why should people need to bear the burden of having to remove something that they don't want from something as basic and fundamental as public drinking water?
After all, one does have the right and freedom to add whatever they might want - at their own cost.

Compulsory fluoridation
Placing fluoride in the public water supply denies people the freedom of expression to not be medicated.
Why should people need to bear the burden of having to remove something that they don't want from something as basic and fundamental as public drinking water?
After all, one does have the right and freedom to add whatever they might want - at their own cost.

Compulsory fluoridation
Placing fluoride in the public water supply denies people the freedom of expression to not be medicated.
Why should people need to bear the burden of having to remove something that they don't want from something as basic and fundamental as public drinking water?
After all, one does have the right and freedom to add whatever they might want - at their own cost.