

Oh My children... you have so much to learn,
to share, to give, to experience...

Know that I am with you always and yet I may not always be with you.

It is up to you to do the things you do.
To live your life, to learn, to experience.

All have been given that which you have.
And each may do with what they have as they choose - as such is your choice also.

Only one thing I say is for you to do and that is for you to make decision for yourself only.
Only you can do that and all others may do so for themselves only also.

Oh My children, go forth and know that you are in My image -- Light - Love - Good...

And all that is around you is same - experience!
